ISABELLE

Coming from a family owning an Oak Sawmill, she discovered wine through the barrels and it was an instant crush! She now manages a 14 hectares estate growing more than 8 different grape varieties. For Isabelle, being a winemaker is always being on the lookout or “à l’Affût” like we say in French. It first means observing closely the vines, soils, flora, and fauna to always stays alert but it’s also a hint to her personal story as the word “fût” means barrel in English.
